Denplan launches single sign on

Denplan is pleased to announce the introduction of a new innovation that adds more value to our employee dental plans offering, continuing our dedication to advancing technology in the employee benefits market. We are introducing ‘single sign on’, enabling employees to sign into the Denplan online services system via their flexible benefits platform, without the need for multiple passwords.

Denplan’s online services already offers employees the ability to submit and track their dental claims online, check their benefit entitlements and make changes to their personal details.

Pam Whelan, Head of Corporate at Denplan comments: “Once again, we’re proud to be at the forefront of delivering on the needs and wants of the employee benefits market. We believe this technological enhancement will benefit our clients, their employees and the intermediaries we work with in providing a more streamlined process, when accessing a flexible benefits platform.

“Keeping things as simple as possible is important with any financial product and this now means that employees only need to sign in once to be able to access a whole range of benefits, including their dental plan.”
