Denplan Announce Events to Support Practice Managers

Continuing its support of the whole practice team, Denplan have announced dates and locations for its dedicated Practice Manager Forums being held around the country for its members later in the year.

Practice Managers will not only get the opportunity to take a day out of the practice to concentrate on their professional growth and development, but they will be able to meet and network with other Denplan Practice Managers from their local area to swap ideas. There is also a comprehensive seminar programme where they can learn about topics to benefit their practices such as:

- The latest updates on regulations and legislative changes relevant to your business
- Real life examples of the kind of marketing you can do in your practice, and how to get the best return on your investment
- Being an assertive manager – techniques to deal with issues across all members of the team, how to handle difficult situations while keeping your practice running smoothly
- That's the 'World of Denplan' for you: a forum designed to update you on all things Denplan

Denplan Events Manager, Simon Eve, commented: "We understand how many hats Practice Managers have to wear in their day to day roles. That's why, as part of our new Denplan Academy, we've developed these Practice Manager Forums to help our members even further. By attending, Practice Manager will not only leave with the tools they need to help their practices thrive, but they will also have earned six hours of verifiable CPD. Spaces are limited however, so I would encourage Practice Managers to sign up soon."
